Recognised for their contributions to the Society and the built environment industry at the ASHRAE 2014 Annual Conference held in Seattle from 28 June to 2 July 2014,

Professor Chandra Sekhar receives the Environmental Health Award, which recognizes excellence in volunteer service focused on environmental health issues.

Dr Bin Yang (class of 2010) receives the Ralph G. Nevins Physiology and Human Environment Award, which is given to a researcher under the age of 40 for significant accomplishments in the study of bioenvironmental engineering and its effect on human comfort and health.